

A CATHOLIC PARLIAMENTARY LIAISON OFFICE WEBINAR ON:

Re-examining our understanding of unemployment & employment in South Africa

In May, Statistics South Africa released its latest unemployment figures, indicating that the unemployment rate rose to 32.9%. According to their data, 16,7 million people are employed while 8,2 million are unemployed. Some argue, however, that the unemployment rate is probably far less if we take into account that those in the informal/township economy, who earn an income through income-generating activities or so-called 'side-hustles', are often not included in the employment statistics.
