

A CATHOLIC PARLIAMENTARY LIAISON OFFICE WEBINAR ON:

Tackling SA's Online Gambling Problem

South Africa is facing what many are calling an unfolding gambling crisis. According to the South African Gambling Board, South Africans wagered over R1.5 trillion in a single year, much of it through online and mobile betting platforms that operate 24/7. It has become much more than just a flutter on a weekend match. It is rent money, grocery money, NSFAS money, and even school fees. The National Responsible Gambling Programme reports that calls for help have more than doubled.
